Week 3

The difference between my creation and ChatGPTs is that I followed the homework guidelines more by creating more interactive artwork in p5.js. I added clicks that created different-sized and moving circles; I used what we learned about moving objects and sizes in class on Wednesday to create this assignment. Not to be biased, but mine also looks a lot more aesthetic than the one chatGPT had created for me. I did have to use an RGB picker to get the correct colors I wanted for this piece, the next thing I would like to add is have the circles have more of a random movement when they first spawn, because right now they all go to the bottom right.
